

[Lesson 24] Episode3_8: Pretty Little Picture (ガラスの理想)

Karl: All right, see you. Have fun.

Julie: Hey, where're you going?

Susan: Just a sec.

Julie: Mom?

Susan: Don't worry, I'm not packing heat. Hey Brandi, could you scoot a little?
Just scoot, thank you. Hi.

Karl: What are you doing?

Susan: I'll be quick. Brandi, I'm sorry for the way I treated you. It was uncalled for, and childish, and it won't happen again. I have built up a lot of anger towards you, both of you, and I realize now that I just can't carry that around anymore.
So, apology or no apology, I'm moving on.

Brandi: Mrs. Mayer?

Karl: Brandi. Brandi, get in the car.

Brandi: Mrs. Mayer?

Susan: Please. Call me Susan.

Brandi: I just wanted you to know, what happened between me and Karl, things got out of hand because I thought your marriage was over. Anyway, I just wanted you to know I'm sorry, I really am.

Susan: Thank you.

Narrator: And though it came from an unexpected source, Susan finally got the apology she'd always wanted.

Tom: Hey, let me take those.

Lynette: You're wearing a really big hat.

Tom: Yes, I am. Listen, the kids are watching a video, which means that we've only got about 45 minutes until they actually find Nemo, so I suggest that we make the most of it.

Lynette: By reliving your night out with the guys?

Tom: Lynette? I'm trying.

Lynette: You look... ridiculous in that thing.

Tom: Sexy ridiculous?

Lynette: Maybe.

Tom: I can live with 'maybe'.

Lynette: Aww. You know, it's gonna take more than just this one night.

Tom: I know. Ahh, looks like we have an audience.

Lynette: Let 'em look. As long as they don't try and cut in.

Bree: Dr. Goldfine.

Dr. Goldfine: Bree. We're not scheduled now, are we?

Bree: I didn't have time to make an appointment. Rex moved out today.

Dr. Goldfine: I'm very sorry to hear that, but unfortunately, I'm completely booked right now.

Bree: I don't need much time, it just seems that you have more insight into my situation than I do. And I just think that...

Dr. Goldfine: Bree, we can't talk now.

Bree: If you could just tell me what he told you, then I could fix the problem.

Dr. Goldfine: You can't do that, it's completely unethical.

Bree: Well, why can't you...

Dr. Goldfine: That's my next appointment. You really need to go.

Bree: Dr. Goldfine, please?

Dr. Goldfine: Hold on. I'll go and talk to my client.

Narrator: Bree searched for Rex's audio tape, hoping to find answers. She found answers, all right. But to an entirely different questions.

Dr. Goldfine: Bree, I'm sorry, he can't wait. But I can see you first thing in the morning, 8 o'clock.

Bree: 8 o'clock. Sorry to interrupt. Bye.

Narrator: Yes, I remember the world. Every detail. And what I remember most is how afraid I was. What a waste. You see, to live in fear is not to live at all. I wish I could tell this to those I left behind, but would it do any good? Probably not.

I understand now there will always be those who face their fears, and there will always be those who run away.
