Educational System

For the last few decades, the educational system in Japan has changed a lot. For instance, high school students are required to have discussions and also to make presentations in English. Many students have difficulties acquiring the skills to express their opinions in English. Some teachers teach students how to improve such skills, and by doing so they encourage students to have more confidence speaking English.

Your story should begin with this sentence:

One day, Tom and Kumi were talking about their exams.
